

August 2026: A Wheelie Good Lavender Festival

The Work Before the Welcome: Booth Line Painting

Long before the first visitors arrived, dedicated Sequim Wheelers volunteers were already on-site preparing the festival grounds. With precision, plenty of sweat, and serious teamwork, the crew transformed a blank field into a well-organized, welcoming booth space. Every line was measured, every detail carefully planned, and every task completed through hours of hands-on effort. Their commitment and determination set the stage for a successful festival weekend and reflected the pride and dedication that define the Sequim Wheelers.

A Celebration of Community, Connection, & Joyful Motion

Throughout the Lavender Festival, the Sequim Wheelers created an inviting place where visitors could connect, learn, and have fun. Volunteers greeted hundreds of guests, shared information about our club, introduced new ride opportunities, and represented the organization with enthusiasm and pride. Their time, energy, and friendly spirit helped make this year's event a memorable success.

A Major Payoff For The Wheelers

Thanks to the dedication of our volunteers, the Sequim Wheelers earned a complimentary booth space by taking on this extra preparation. That effort saved the organization money and ensured that every dollar could be directed toward rides, equipment, and programs that enrich our members and the community.

✦ A Big Job
Well Tackled

Measuring, marking and painting straight, crisp booth lines took time, focus, and teamwork. The summer heat didn't make it easy, but our volunteers powered through with determination and good humor.

✦ Huge kudos to GRANT ROLLINS, who led the entire line-painting effort. His coordination, steady guidance, and hands-on leadership kept the project running smoothly and ensured the final result looked fantastic.

Leadership That
Made It Happen

Booth Setup & Happenings ✨

A Hub of Smiles, Stories, and Community Connection

Once the lines were dry, it was time for all vendors to set up their booths, including our complimentary free booth! Volunteers assembled displays, arranged ride information, and created a welcoming space that drew visitors in all weekend long! ✨

✨ Highlights From The Booth ✨

Our booth became a mini-celebration spot, with families posing beside the Wheelers trikes and volunteers capturing joyful snapshots.

Volunteer Energy.

The booth stayed lively thanks to dedicated volunteers who answered questions, handed out flyers and lavender bundles, and spread Wheeler's enthusiasm with every conversation.

More Than A Booth

A Gathering Place. A Storytelling Space. A Celebration of the Wheelers.

Ride Sign-Ups

Visitors signed up for future Wheeler rides, some discovering adaptive cycling for the first time.

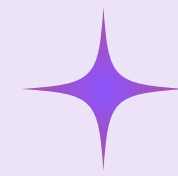

Meet & Greet Moments

Festivalgoers stopped by to learn about our mission, chat with volunteers, and share stories about biking, caregiving, and community life.

Special THANKS

A heartfelt thank-you to Morgan Stephenson for donating her beautiful handcrafted glass designs, Sun Bonnets for the stunning quilts, an unknown artist (who introduced himself as "Peter Pan") for the unique birdhouses, and Joy Jay for donating six large tubs of fresh lavender from her garden. We also extend our thanks to Kelly Iriye, Festival Director, and Brooke Ann, whose guidance, support, and cheerful attitudes made the booth line project a pleasure to be part of.
